MOSBY FUNERAL HELD TOMORROW

Veteran Rangers Will Escort
Body to Warrenton, Va.,
For Last Rites.

The body of Col. John S. Mosby, one of the last famous characters of the civil war, who died yesterday morning at Garfield Hospital, will leave Washington at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for Warrenton, Va., to be buried in the family section of the Warrenton Cemetery.

The remaining handful of veterans of the Mosby Rangers, some of them of this city and others of Warrenton, will escort the body to the grave.

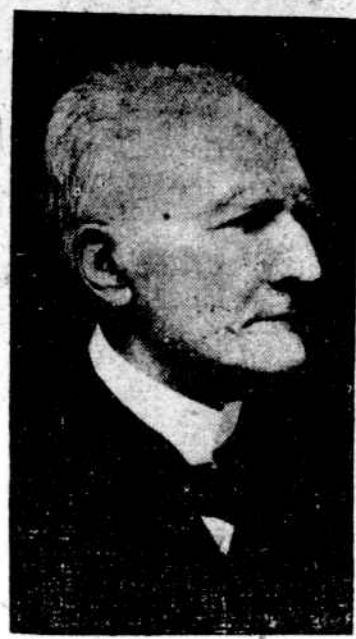

Among the relatives who will accompany the body to Warrenton will be Col. Mosby's brother-in-law, Charles W. Russell, former minister to Persia; three daughters of the deceased, Miss Ada Mosby, Miss Pauline Mosby and Mrs. Stuart Mosby Coleman; a nephew, Harold Mosby, and three grandsons, Beverly Coleman, Mosby Campbell and Spotsford Campbell. Col. Mosby, who was 52 years old, died from diseases incident to his age. He had been failing for six months.

Began As Lawyer.

Col. Mosby was born in Powhatan County, Va., December 6, 1833. He entered the University of Virginia in 1850 and graduated two years later. He began the practice of law at Bristol, Va., in 1856.

Shortly afterward he married Miss Pauline Clarke. At the outbreak of the war Mosby, then a young lawyer, enlisted as a private in the First Virginia Cavalry, of which Col. J. E. B. Stuart was commander. Later he organized the band of guerrillas, known as "Mosby's Rangers."

COL. JOHN S. MOSBY, one of the most noted veterans of the civil war, who died yesterday.
